

Economic Outlook

First Quarter 2022

The New World (Dis)Order

By: James R. Solloway, CFA, Chief Market Strategist and Senior Portfolio Manager

SEI recently released its first-quarter Economic Outlook. A summary of the conclusions is provided below:

- The Russian war against Ukraine is a seminal event that has worsened the shortages and inflation pressures already felt as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- Even if peace breaks out tomorrow, Russia will be isolated economically and become dependent on China, financially and economically.
- The US Federal Reserve and other central banks have no choice but to transition from supporting economic growth with extremely expansive monetary policies to fighting inflation with higher interest rates and quantitative tightening.
- Fiscal policy, especially in Europe, will likely continue to be expansionary in order to mitigate the impact of price spikes in food and energy, provide military support to Ukraine and open-ended aid to millions of war refugees, bolster NATO defences, and improve energy security.
- The global disruption to the supply of commodities had a predictable result: commodity-price inflation. The upward trajectory in commodities inflation is nearly as sharp as in the early 1970s¹. Eventually, higher prices lead to more investment and increased supply, while those same higher prices force a sharp pullback in demand and may result in an economic recession.
- Fears of a recession in the US and Europe this year or next appear misplaced, although growth will likely be slower than had been anticipated prior to the invasion. The odds of recession will climb beyond next year, however, as global interest rates adjusted for inflation rise and the financial positions of households and business deteriorate.
- Equity markets rebounded surprisingly sharply during the closing weeks of March, highlighting the resiliency and adaptability of publicly-traded companies. Despite this, investors should continue to expect more volatility and mixed equity performance as a result of war uncertainty, stubbornly high inflation and tighter monetary policies.
- The threat of stagflation is a possibility. In the 1970s, similar economic conditions saw value equities, small-cap stocks and commodities among the best-performing asset classes, while bonds and stocks with high earnings multiples lagged badly. While the past is not necessarily prologue, SEI notes that the best-performing areas in the year-to-date have been commodities, commodity equities, value-oriented equities and defensive sectors.
- From the years-long COVID pandemic and supply-chain shocks to inflation and war, the world is an unpredictable place where events both far from home and right in your neighbourhood can sometimes have dramatic effects on financial markets. Unsettled times further reinforce our belief in diversification as a sound investment strategy.

A full-length paper is available if you wish to learn more about these timely topics.

¹ Source: Commodity Research Bureau

Important Information

This material is not directed to any persons where (by reason of that person's nationality, residence or otherwise) the publication or availability of this material is prohibited. Persons in respect of whom such prohibitions apply must not rely on this information in any respect whatsoever. Investment in the funds or products that are described herein are available only to intended recipients and this communication must not be relied upon or acted upon by anyone who is not an intended recipient.

This material represents an assessment of the market environment at a specific point in time and is not intended to be a forecast of future events, or a guarantee of future results. While considerable care has been taken to ensure the information contained within this document is accurate and up-to-date, no warranty is given as to the accuracy or completeness of any information and no liability is accepted for any errors or omissions in such information or any action taken on the basis of this information.

SEI Investments (Europe) Limited (SIEL) acts as distributor of collective investment schemes which are authorised in Ireland pursuant to the UCITS regulations and which are collectively referred to as the "SEI Funds" in these materials. These umbrella funds are incorporated in Ireland as limited liability investment companies and are managed by SEI Investments Global Limited, an affiliate of the distributor. SEI Investments (Europe) Limited utilises the SEI Funds in its asset management programme to create asset allocation strategies for its clients. Any reference in this document to any SEI Funds should not be construed as a recommendation to buy or sell these securities or to engage in any related investment management services. Recipients of this information who intend to apply for shares in any SEI Fund are reminded that any such application must be made solely on the basis of the information contained in the Prospectus (which includes a schedule of fees and charges and maximum commission available). Commissions and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs.) Please refer to our latest Prospectus (which includes information in relation to the use of derivatives and the risks associated with the use of derivative instruments), Key Investor Information Document, Summary of UCITS Shareholder rights (which includes a summary of the rights that shareholders of our funds have) and the latest Annual or Semi-Annual Reports for more information on our funds, which can be located at Fund Documents. You should read the terms and conditions contained in the Prospectus (including the risk factors) before making any investment decision.

Data refers to past performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future results. Investments in SEI Funds are generally medium- to long-term investments. The value of an investment and any income from it can go down as well as up. Returns may increase or decrease as a result of currency fluctuations. Investors may get back less than the original amount invested. SEI Funds may use derivative instruments which may be used for hedging purposes and/or investment purposes. This material represents an assessment of the market environment at a specific point in time and is not intended to be a forecast of future events.

In addition to the usual risks associated with investing, the following risks may apply: Bonds and bond funds are subject to interest rate risk and will decline in value as interest rates rise. High-yield bonds involve greater risks of default or downgrade and are more volatile than investment-grade securities, due to the speculative nature of their investments. International investments may involve risk of capital loss from unfavourable fluctuation in currency values, from differences in generally accepted accounting principles or from economic or political instability in other nations. Emerging markets involve heightened risks related to the same factors as well as increased volatility and lower trading volume. Narrowly focused investments, securities focusing on a single country, and investments in smaller companies typically exhibit higher volatility.

The opinions and views in this commentary are of SIEL only and are subject to change. They should not be construed as investment advice.

This information is issued by SEI Investments (Europe) Limited (SIEL) 1st Floor, Alphabeta, 14-18 Finsbury Square, London EC2A 1BR, United Kingdom. SIEL is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority (FRN 191713).

Issued in South Africa by SEI Investments (South Africa) (Pty) Limited FSP No. 13186 which is a financial services provider authorised and regulated by the Financial Sector Conduct Authority (FSCA). Registered office: 3 Melrose Boulevard, 1st Floor, Melrose Arch 2196, Johannesburg, South Africa.

This commentary is intended for information purposes only and the information in it does not constitute financial advice as contemplated in terms of the Financial Advisory and Intermediary Services Act.

SEI sources data directly from FactSet, Lipper, and BlackRock unless otherwise stated.